[See ATTACHMENT 1, annexed hereto]

Technical Services & Approach

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

We understand the scope of this project is to provide professional architectural and engineering design services required to renovate the building façade, roofing, windows, HVAC systems, exterior stairs and architectural layout.

Our experience in educational projects has taught us the importance of defining the criteria for project success at the outset.

Our Project Team’s approach is summarized as follows:

PROGRAMMING/SKETCH STUDY PHASE

- a. Assemble our team of experienced architects and engineers. Our project team’s qualifications and relevant experience are presented below and in Section 3.
- b. Thoroughly assess and evaluate the building areas and systems to be repaired to understand the extent of the deterioration that has occurred and the probable causes of the deterioration. Evaluation of existing deterioration may require some amount of selected demolition to expose hidden conditions.
- c. Develop recommended repair and/or reconstruction strategies for each deficiency.
- d. Prepare a detailed report of our findings to include recommendations for corrective work and an itemized cost estimate of the recommended corrective measures. Our report will include the following:
  - I. Description of building and site components construction and condition.
  - II. Photographic documentation of the assessed areas and any problem.
  - III. Areas or deficiencies identified.
  - IV. Prioritization of necessary repairs.
  - V. Recommended repair procedures.
  - VI. Cost estimates of repairs.

PRELIMINARY DESIGN PHASE

- a. Upon authorization by the College to begin Design Development, our team will seamlessly transition into this phase working to expand upon the option selected by SCCC. Led by our project manager, our project team will apply the knowledge gained during the schematic phase to develop the design documents, working to ensure full code compliance and compliance with your overall objectives and goals; we work to eliminate surprises and issues down the road. During this phase we will conduct additional fieldwork and continue our coordination with the various stakeholders regarding specific project scope items.

- b. Tetra Tech will provide our recommendations for ACM testing and subsequent abatement design services.
- c. The deliverables for the Design Development phase will include detailed design development drawings and preliminary technical specifications encompassing the entire project scope of work. We will provide product cuts sheets and other documents as necessary. Tetra Tech will also prepare and include an updated Opinion of Probable Cost for the option pursued. We will meet with the College to review these deliverables, address any questions, respond to comments, and assist you in moving into next phase of the project.

CONTRACT DOCUMENTS PHASE

- a. Upon approval of the Design Development phase and documents, Tetra Tech will quickly move forward with producing a well-coordinated, comprehensive drawing and specifications package that fully details the project. The project bid documents, including the front end bid specifications, will be produced in full compliance with the requirements of the College along with the applicable state and federal requirements. Through the construction document phase, we are constantly updating and managing the overall scope, schedule and budget. In addition to managing these aspects of the projects, before the completion of each deliverable package we have an independent internal Tetra Tech team perform Quality Reviews to ensure overall quality and constructability of the project. Tetra Tech will submit a 100% construction document package, along with an Opinion of Probable Cost to SCCC for review. We will meet with SCCC to review and discuss this package, and then incorporate the comments and complete the final bid document package for submission to the College. We will conduct a final meeting with SCCC to review the final 100% deliverables.

CONSTRUCTION PHASE

a. Bids are awarded, contracts are signed, and the work can begin. This is the phase where delays in communication can result in delays in project progress. The sooner items are addressed, the faster the work can move forward. Aside from the standard weekly meeting to address items face to face, we also use a "WEB BASED COMMUNICATION TOOL." We set-up a website on our server that is specific to the project. All Requests for Information (RFI), submittals, and all other communication go through this website. From this central point, information is sent out to various members of the Tetra Tech team, College, and contractors. This allows us to track all the information and responses. Internally a representative of the Tetra Tech team tracks the information coming in and out and a "Hot Sheet" is produced when "RFI" or submittals have not been responded to in a timely manner. An email is sent to remind people of the items awaiting decision. We have found this system has improved communication greatly, resulting in construction work progressing as planned or even more quickly than planned.

By clearly communicating the project goals to all team members and stakeholders at every project phase, and by carefully managing these expectations, your Tetra Tech Architects & Engineers' Project Team will help to deliver a project in which success for all is achieved.
